

Welcome to Northern Germany!

IFFR FLY-IN from 07 to 09 July 2023
in the Hanseatic City of Lübeck

Lübeck – Queen of the Hanseatic League

The city has been "Queen of the Hanseatic League" since the Middle Ages for 500 years - today it is the gateway to the Baltic Sea, to Scandinavia and the Baltic States.

The town's landmark is the late-Gothic brick Holsten Gate, which was completed in 1478 and served to shield the old town, which is situated on an island in the Trave.

In the shadow of Lübeck's five town churches and several other interesting historical monuments, you can stroll through winding streets of the old town, through hidden corridors and backyards - all of them telling living stories. Also the cultural diversity and the architectural epochs of about 1,600 listed houses can be discovered.

The St. Mary's Church, which was rebuilt after the Second World War, is a 13.-14. century built brick building, which served as an architectural model for many northern European churches.

The Nordic beauty has retained the charm of the original port city...

The historic old town has been part of Lübeck's UNESCO World Heritage and the lively city culture since 1987.

Once there have been 180 inhabited passageways and courtyards. Today there are about 90 left. Most of them in the Old Town are open to the public and accessible for a relaxed stroll.

Today the small, lovingly restored court houses are coveted living space in the heart of the city and can hardly be surpassed in terms of idyll and romance.
